

Siding Permit

You will need to obtain a building permit. Flashing is required above all building openings. You will also need to provide the type of siding, manufacturer, material beneath siding, and square feet of siding. We will also need to know if the electric meter is going to be removed for the siding installation and if all the building openings will be wrapped. . Unless the homeowner is doing the work it is also necessary to provide licensing and insurance information for the contractor on the permit application.
